Godfather eyes tag straps

Is the world ready for a wrestling pimp and a porno star to be holding tag team gold? The Godfather thinks so. Although they aren't scheduled to be on the Fully Loaded pay-per-view, Charles Wright (aka The Godfather) with his partner Val Venis, are ready for a rematch against whoever walks away with the straps this Sunday.

Intercontinental
champ.

"Over the last couple of weeks, we should've won the damn things. You know, those Hardy Boys...they've gotten away twice now when those belts should've changed," The Godfather told SLAM! Wrestling.

Dubbed Supply And Demand by the fans, The Godfather and Venis team have a history of backing each other up at crucial times. The two controversial superstars get along in and out of the ring. There is however one problem.

"You gotta keep Val away from those girls though, you know," joked The Godfather in town to face Median at a SkyDome house show. "Val would be wearing them girls out!"

Challenging Median (Dennis Knight), one of The Undertaker's sicko henchmen, won't be a stroll on the beach. A former WWF World Tag Team Champion as part of the slop-hurling Godwinn Brothers, Knight went under a sinister transformation when he joined The Undertaker's Ministry Of Darkness. Median's European Title (bestowed on him by Shane McMahon) isn't on the line at SkyDome and neither are The Godfather's "hos".

"They wouldn't want to take him. I'll just have to kick his butt," said The Godfather.
